RICE

The Canton Strike Market Here Quiet World Production

BY OUR FINANCIAL EDITOR

The rice strike in Canton continues, and this has sent up the price of the cereal to an extent to inflict hardship on the working classes. There is a proposal to carry out relief work by the creation of a number of "public selling stations" as a means of relieving the high price of rice. For this purpose thousands of bags of rice have been imported into Canton from Hongkong. This has not afforded much relief as only a small number of stations have been established, while the number of rice wholesale houses that suspended business is more than a hundred. Large funds are needed for the carrying out of the scheme, and it is doubtful if the Chamber of Commerce at Canton will succeed in effecting much in this direction. Before the strike was declared rice was sold in Canton at 12 to 13 catties to the dollar. At the end of last month there were only 100,000 bags of rice in stock in Canton, but this is not expected to see the population through for more than a week or so more.

Owing to the disturbed condition of the country the import and export trade of Canton is paralyzed. The unsettled state of the district naturally has a disquieting effect upon Chinese buyers, and it also serves to interfere with the movement of products to the city of Canton as well as with the shipment of imported manufactured goods to the interior. Both imports and exports from the Canton district have declined compared with the same period last year, and under such depressing conditions it is not surprising that trade is not recovering.

MARKET HERE QUIET

The rice market in Shanghai is quiet, not much interest being evinced in imported cargo. The Hongkong market, which was previously quite firm, is now lifeless with a downward tendency. Imports into Hongkong from Saigon are at present on a reduced scale, while the general tendency in Saigon, as well, is weak. There have been some prompt shipments of rice from Saigon to Hongkong, some 30 steamers having been chartered to carry Saigon rice to Hongkong. The total amount of rice exported from Indo-China to Hongkong last year amounted to 1,133,[illegible] tons against 1,240,274 tons. For March shipment white Saigon rice is quoted at $6.35 per picul f.o.b. Saigon. The estimated surplus available for export from Saigon for the coming season is expected to be 1,200,000 tons, which is approximately the same as the season that is closing. Of last year's crop only 50,000 tons remain to be exported, a portion of which is being held up in the hopes of the market improving. The total area planted with rice in Cochin China and Cambodia for 1923-1924 is officially estimated at 1,696,443 hectares (4,196,000 acres) as compared with 1,833,869 hectares (4,530,000 acres) last year.

The world's normal production of rice, excluding China and a few minor countries, is between 50 and 60 million tons. The estimate made by the Indian Trade Inquiry is about 60 million tons, excluding China, while guesses at the China crop range from 5 to 35 million tons. According to the International Institute of Agriculture the world's average production is over 125 million tons. The consumption per head varies from 335 lbs. in Japan to between three and twenty pounds per head in Europe and America. Its chief use is for food, but its

ARMED ROBBERS TO BE EXECUTED, COURT'S ORDER

Three Convicted Of Murder Must Pay Death Penalty

Convicted of the murder of one man and the attempted murder of another during the course of three armed robberies committed last December, three Chinese were ordered to the Arsenal for execution by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Kwan of the Mixed Court yesterday. A fourth principal in the gang committed suicide in his cell some days ago and two others were sentenced to imprisonment, one for ten years and the other for two.

The gang of six was located in a lodging house at 6 Pakhoi Road by a Chinese detective on January 2. When the arrests were made the first and second accused—the latter the man who later committed suicide—attempted to shoot their captors but were overpowered and disarmed. Each carried a fully loaded automatic.

The murder that of one Zung Dah Kwe Tsze, was committed at 1935 East Yuhang Road on New Year's Eve, after the robbers had held up the place and taken $100. The attempted murder took place at a house in the country off Wuting Road three nights previous, when one Wong Zienkung was wounded in the side. The other robbery occurred at 511 Paoting Road on December 5.

Part of the stolen property was found in the gang's lodgings, together with pawntickets for other loot.

The prosecution of the robbers was conducted by Chief Detective Inspector Cruickshank.

(Exclusive China Press)

Rome, Feb. 11.—Former Premier Orlando of Italy, in an interview appearing in the Gleornale D'Italia, confirms the correctness of reports concerning a special agreement which was reached by Former Premier Clemenceau of France and President Wilson regarding Fiume and the Rhinelands, to which, he says, he was no party, and of which he was not informed earlier than was Former Premier David Lloyd George, of England, whose recent statement regarding the matter created a sensation both in Europe and America.

Former Premier Orlando declares that although Fiume has of late become Italian, other problems connected with the Versailles treaty are cankering Europe's heart.

MANUFACTURERS OF BOGUS NOTES GET JAIL TERMS

Police Seize Large Quantity Of Counterfeit $10 Bills

For counterfeiting the $10 notes of the Bank of China two Chinese printers, Shu Tsz-ching and Yan Kung-sung, were sentenced to two years' imprisonment by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Kwan at the Mixed Court yesterday.

The men were arrested at 435 Medhurst Road on January 29, after a Chinese detective had succeeded in buying one of the bogus notes from one of them. In the house were found 125 counterfeit $10 notes, plates and various other paraphernalia used in printing the spurious money. The only thing missing was the printing machine, and the accused explained that $40 was owing on it and that the seller had taken it back.

The counterfeit notes and the paraphernalia were ordered destroyed.

BALDWIN IS RETAINED AS LEADER OF UNIONISTS

Ex-Premier Is Given Warm Reception By Cohorts

TARIFF DROPPED

Imperial Preference To Be Aim Of Party

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 11.—Over 500 members, including a considerable number of defeated candidates and 200 Peers, attended a meeting of the Unionist Party at the Hotel Cecil this afternoon to decide questions of leadership and the future policy of the Party.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who was given a warm reception, briefly stated the Party's policy.

The Earl of Balfour moved and Mr. J. F. P. Rawlinson seconded a resolution of confidence in Mr. Baldwin as leader, which Mr. Austen Chamberlain supported.

The resolution was unanimously carried.

Mr. Baldwin declared that the policy of a general tariff on imported goods must be dropped in favor of Imperial preference and extensions of the Safeguarding of Industries Act, whereby special assistance would be given to distressed industries which could prove to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade that they required some form of protection.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 11.—Mr. Stanley Baldwin's speech at today's Unionist meeting outlining the future Conservative policy was warmly applauded, especially his emphatic declaration of his intention to stand fast and unhesitatingly to everything decided at the Imperial Conference, fighting if necessary to the end. The ex-Premier announced that he would confer with agricultural interests to devise a practical policy to assist the industry. He declared that the Conservatives' great enemies of the future would not be the Liberals, who were moribund, but Labor which was very much alive. "You are not going to beat Labor on a policy of tranquillity, negation or sitting still". Mr. Baldwin urged the party to examine in a modern light the number of pressing domestic problems and prepare a social policy ready for the next election.

HONGKONG MAN ENDS OWN LIFE WITH REVOLVER

H. H. Day Dies After Writing Note Damning 'The East'

"Damn the East and all its falseness."

After writing that note, which was found in his pocket, Mr. H. H. Day of the Hongkong Electric Company, and known in Shanghai as a prominent athlete of the Colony who only a few days before had played against Shanghai in an interport rugby match, ended his own life on February 8 by firing a bullet into his brain.

Mr. Day, according to the South China Morning Post, ordered a company car to take him for a ride. After going on Jubilee Road as far as a house known as "Blarney Stone" he got out of the car and walked around a bend in the road. A few seconds afterward the Indian chauffeur heard a shot and hastened to where Mr. Day had gone. Before he reached him he saw Mr. Day standing in the middle of the road holding a revolver in his hand and then heard three more shots.

Despite the four wounds Day still stood on his feet and as the chauffeur rushed up to him he placed the pistol to his head once more and pulled the trigger.

When police, summoned by the chauffeur, arrived he was still alive but died the same night in hospital. No motive for his mad act is known.

Rocket To Pierce Space In Prospect

Prof. R. H. Goddard

Professor R. H. Goddard, of Clarke University, addressing the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Cincinati, declares the results of his experiments on high altitude rockets made reasonably certain that he would soon be able to build a rocket that would travel beyond the limits of the attraction of gravitation and might reach some other heavenly body. An initial speed of six miles per second is essential, he said, to free the rocket from the earth's attraction.

Low Water Forces Halt On Upper Yangtsze Ships

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, Feb. 4.—Steam navigation on the Upper Yangtsze has been entirely suspended on account of the very low water. The Pakiang arrived in port from Chungking on January 28, and the Chichuen two days later, and these are the last two steamers of the season. When the former arrived the water mark was 0.3, so it was impossible to think of going up again. The Chichuen had the misfortune to strike on the rocks some 12 miles below Chungking on her trip before last, but was not so badly injured that she had to stop running. She was patched up with cement, and was able to put in another run, and has now gone to Shanghai for proper repairs. The water mark today is—0.5.

Without doubt a wonderful thing has been done in thus making it possible to navigate the wild waters of the Upper Yangtsze for nearly eleven months of the year, and much credit is due to all who have had to do with the undertaking. The river inspector is ever on the alert to do all he can to assist in the navigation of these difficult waters, while the captains and pilots of the steamers deserve every praise for the way they handle their ships in the face of great difficulties of currents, eddies and whirlpools.

SIX HIT ROCKS

Of course dangers have to be faced, as is demonstrated by the fact that no fewer than six ships have struck rocks this winter, but fortunately not one of the six came to an untimely end. All have been brought down and gone to Shanghai, except the Hsutong, and we understand that salvage operations on her are proceeding satisfactorily.

The military steamer Yangwei was the worst damaged of all, but even she was brought down safely. We understand the military are hard task-masters, and the pilot of the Yangwei was cast into prison and beaten because the ship struck the rocks. Now they have two other steamers which have recently gone up. One is the old Ankong, but she has been renamed the Kiahtsi, which presumably has been given her for good luck, as it is the name of the first year in the cycle, which begins tomorrow.

The Chamber of Commerce have done a splendid piece of work recently in clearing the streets of beggars. It was represented to the shopkeepers that they were daily being pestered by beggars, and handed over small sums, which in the aggregate might come to as much as a dollar a month. So the chamber said that if these sums were paid to them, they would clear the beggars off the streets, and house, feed and clothe them. Temporary shelters have been erected within the grounds of the Chamber of Commerce, and here beggars to the number of 250 have been congregated. Each one was required to wash (and it must have been a task! !) and was then given clothes fit to wear. They are being taught to work as barbers, tailors and shoemakers. Truly it is a fine piece of work, and will be a credit to those who carry it through successfully. Meantime the shopkeepers are quite pleased to subscribe to the funds sums varying from 1000 to 6000 cash per month, according to the size of the shop.

ORDER MAINTAINED

Good order is certainly being kept in the place just now, as Brigadier Liu, who has command of the patrolling troops, does not allow any loafers to congregate, or gambling to be carried on.

In spite of the funds that are being collected from opium taxation, the military have not been able to get sufficient money for the troops for the New Year, and

U. S. SENATE DEFIED BY COOLIDGE IN DENBY FIGHT

Will Not Recognize Move To Force Resignation

M'ADOO WITNESS

Democratic Leader Absolves Himself

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, Feb. 11.—Following a cabinet conference at the White House, Secretary of War John W. Weeks announced that President Calvin Coolidge intended to ignore the resolution passed by the senate demanding the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby who has been attacked in connection with the investigation of lease on naval oil lands granted to the Sinclair and Doheny interests by Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

The Senate resolution, which is specifically directed to President Coolidge, was passed by a vote of 57 to 25.

Secretary of the Navy Denby today said that he would not resign.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Feb. 11.—Answering the Senate's resolution regarding Secretary of the Navy Denby, President Coolidge says that no official recognition can be given to the passage of a resolution relating the Senate's opinion concerning members of the Cabinet or other officials under Executive control.

President Coolidge adds that he does not propose to sacrifice an innocent man for his own welfare nor to retain in office any unfit man. As soon as special counsel advise him regarding the validity of the oil leases he will take such action as seems essential for full protection of the public interest and he will not hesitate to request the resignation of any officials whose conduct in this matter warrants such a step.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Feb. 11.—The Senate has passed a resolution demanding the resignation of Mr. Denby, the Secretary of the Navy.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Feb. 11.—Mr. William G. McAdoo, who until recently was the most favored candidate for Democratic nomination to the Presidency, gave evidence before the Senate investigation committee today. He stated that he did not know Mr. Doheny before he resigned the Secretaryship of the Treasury. Mr. Doheny employed him and his firm a year later in connection with their Mexican difficulties. Mr. McAdoo had now terminated his services with Mr. Doheny. The ex-Secretary of the Treasury declared that he had learned to appreciate the importance of oil to railways and also to modern warfare.

(Exclusive China Press)

Washington, Feb. 11.—It is understood that the Senate committee investigating the 'teapot tempest' that has resulted from disclosures concerning government leases on the Teapot Dome oil lands now has under consideration the nominations made by President Coolidge to prosecute the alleged graft charges.

It is said that while there is some opposition to both Mr. Silas Strawn, the well known Chicago attorney, and to ex-Senator Pomerene of Ohio it is not serious and they will both be confirmed by the Senate.

The Senate has yet to consider the resolution introduced by Senator Robinson demanding the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby. Rumors persist that there are impending changes in the Cabinet but no statements have been issued from the White House.

(Exclusive China Press)

New York, Feb. 12.—The New York Times publishes as special dispatch in which it is asserted that they have learned authoritatively that Secretary of the Navy Denby has decided to resign.

CABINET HOLDS FIRST SESSION AFTER HOLIDAYS

Trade Marks Law And Note Of Powers Discussed, Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 9.—The first meeting of the Cabinet after the Lunar New Year holidays was held this morning. Premier Sun presided and all the ministers were present. According to the official report of the meeting, the resignation of General Chang Ying-fang, Chief of the Army and Navy Audit Department, was accepted, and it was resolved to appoint to that post Mr. Wu Kuang-ti. Mr. Yun Pao-huai, former Chief Secretary of the Cabinet, was appointed special commissioner to arrange means of assisting the poor in Peking.

While the official report does not contain this news, it is understood that the Cabinet discussed the recent note from the Diplomatic Body regarding the Chinese Trade Marks Law, finally deciding to refer the matter to the Ministries of Commerce, Finance and Foreign Affairs for further consideration before replying to the note.

When the meeting concluded, the Members of the Cabinet called on the President with a view to arranging for a weekly meeting with the President at which all outstanding matters can be discussed.

Dr. Wang Urged To Return To Peking

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Feb. 11.—The fact that the central government today wired to Dr. C. T. Wang, who is now on a visit to Shanghai, asking him to return to Peking without delay is generally looked upon as an evidence that the government is desirous of the immediate opening of the Russo-Chinese conference. It is, however, unknown whether or not the negotiations will be opened at all. It is inferred in political circles that the opening of the negotiations can be conceivable only when the Chinese government first pledges itself that the attitude on which it has hitherto stood firm will be modified.

Dr. Wang has been spending his holidays in Shanghai with his family. While silent on the question of Sino-Russian negotiations, he has been utilising his leisure here in pushing the good roads movement, in which a campaign for membership will shortly be launched.

He left Shanghai for Hangchow yesterday where he was to call on General Lu Yung-hsiang and Governor Chang Tsai-yang of Chekiang and is expected to return to Shanghai today. He will proceed to Peking immediately to prepare for the resumption of the parley with Mr. L. M. Karakhan, the Soviet envoy.

Witness In Oil Scandal

WM. C. McADOO

Mr. McAdoo, who, if he should become mixed up in the oil scandal concerning the Teapot Dome oil leases, might as well rescue his hat from the ring of presidential possibilities, has just testified before the special committee hearing the charges. He denied that he had ever had any connection with any of the oil leases in the United States although he had been legal representative for the oil company in Mexico.

an appeal has again been made to the Chamber of Commerce, who have had to produce the sum of $50,000. The police are also hard up, and they have applied to the same source for a loan of $2,000. It is a question how long it will be before the merchants are so bare that they will not be able to meet these demands.

Dealers in cigarettes and cigars have been doing their best to oppose the 20 percent ad valorem tax recently imposed on them. They have protested, and three or four days ago a crowd of 200 of them gathered in front of the magistrate's yamen and made a bit of a row. But the tax has not yet been withdrawn, and may not be at all.

There is still no word of the release of the captives taken from the Yiyang Maru. The Peking Government has again appointed a deputy to proceed to Szechuen to negotiate for their release, and he was due to leave Peking some days ago. He will not be able to get up by steamer for about a month yet. We understand the party who holds these two men still demands a million dollars. It is now five months since the incident, so these two men have been held longer than any others who have been taken by bandits.

Coolidge Derides Old Fallacy About Preacher's Sons

(Exclusive China Press)

New York, Feb. 12.—At the inaugural meeting of an organization of newspapermen who are the sons of ministers of the Gospel a letter was read from President Coolidge in which he derided the tradition that preacher's sons all come to a bad end and pointed out the numerous minister's sons who have risen to high public office and reached the top of the ladder in other lines of endeavor. All seventeen members of the unique organization are distinguished newspapermen whose fathers were Methodist ministers.

DINOSAUR EGG FROM CHINA TO GO AT AUCTION

Funds Will Be Used To Aid New Expedition Into Gobi Desert

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, Jan 7.—The American Museum of Natural History, which has a world corner on the dinosaur egg market, decided today to sell to the highest bidder, for not less than $5,000, one of the 25 fossilised eggs of the Protoceratops Andrews, unearthed in Mongolia last July by Prof. Roy Chapman Andrews, curator-in-chief of the division of exploration and research.

Proceeds of the sale, said Professor Andrews, would be devoted to the $250,000 fund with which, this summer, he hopes to lead an expedition into the Gobi desert, 1,000 miles from Peking, in search of remains of primitive man as he was from 500,000 to 2,000,000 years ago.

BRITISH ARMY TO ADOPT U. S. MACHINE GUN

Lewis Guns Being Replaced By Brownings, London Newspaper Says

(Reuter's American Service)

London, Jan. 4.—The British Army, according to the Star, is abandoning the Lewis gun, which figured so prominently in the World War, for the Browning gun, an American invention.

The new weapon is more easily carried, and, as it weighs only fifteen pounds, it can be fired either from the shoulder or from the hip. Its magazine holds forty service cartridges, which can be fired in two and one-half seconds and replaced with a new batch in two seconds.

Another advantage is that a rifleman can use it at pleasure as an ordinary gun or a machine gun. If he sees one enemy he can fire a single shot, and, if he thus flushes a detachment, he can let the other thirty-nine go one after another.

The Browning guns will be issued as the Lewis guns wear out and are returned to the stores.

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION IS ORGANIZED

Dr. Harold Balme To Head New Organisation

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, Feb. 11.—The Conference of Christian Colleges and Universities just held at Ginling College, resulted in the formation of what is to be known as the China Association for Christian Higher Education. The membership of this permanent organisation is to be open to all Christian men and women engaged in higher education in China. A council was selected representing all sections of China and about equally divided between the Chinese and foreign faculty. The officers of this new organisation are: Dr. Harold Balme, president; Mr. Francis Wei, vice president; Miss Jean Dickinson, secretary; and Dr. C. H. Westbrook, treasurer. In addition committees were constituted by groups interested along various lines of teaching and research to provide for the pooling of experience and to make research work more effective.

An interesting section was that on Home Economics, represented on the program by a paper by Dr. Wm. H. Adolph of Shantung Christian University on the Dietary of North China, and by the presentation of Miss Ava B. Milam's investigation of the home life of some 1200 Chinese families. The study was preliminary to the offering of courses in the Home Economics department of Yenching College.

The general meeting of the last day featured two addresses, by Mr. T. Z. Koo on the National Christian Movement and by Dr. T. T. Lew on the Contribution of Christian Colleges to the Church. It is felt that the conference marks a very important step forward in the history of education and of the Christian Church in China.

Yangchow Installs New Lighting Plant

(China Press Correspondence)

Yangchow, Feb. 5.—The recent snowfall has gladdened the heart of the farmers of this section, and they begin the new year with good hopes, and with satisfaction in the good crops of the last year. The New Year's Day is being celebrated here in the good old style, with every shop closed, and the streets as quiet as those of an old-fashioned new England town on Sunday. Business was good during the year, and the feeling that a holiday may be afforded is general.

In the city there is particular rejoicing over the fact that after months of wretched service on the part of the Electric Lighting Company, we have again very excellent lights. A very fine new engine has been purchased and installed, and the New Year illumination is brilliant. The inauguration of the new service was inaugurated in a characteristic fashion. I had the pleasure of seeing the new engine on the day that its work was to begin. Before it had been set out a large table, on which were placed a pig's head, a duck, a chicken, and other offerings, with two large red candles lighted. And as I was looking over the new plant, many of the employees came forward and made their devotions before the dynamo. And sure enough, that night the lights were fine indeed.

The Chinkiang-Yangchow Motor Car service is excellent, and highly profitable. A foreign engineer has been engaged, who is doing much for the material plant as well as the service. It is said that the roads will be extended soon up the Grand Canal to other cities.

Music Of Violin Banishes Pain Of Surgeon's Knife

Chicago.—While Jan Rubini coaxed murmuring music from a violin, Mrs. Irene Bessell, formerly an actress, underwent a minor operation upon one eye, with no anaesthetic, here this afternoon.

The theory of Dr. Henry J. Shireson was that music may so enrapture the senses that they may be made insensible to a surgeon's scalpel. Rubini played softly while the surgeon worked.

"Do you feel pain?" asked Dr. Shireson.

"None whatever," the patient replied. "The music is wonderful."

The actress hopes now to return to the stage, which she was compelled to leave by a growth on her eye.

Christian General Will Wed Again, Is Announcement

The engagement of General Feng Yu-hsiang, known as the "Christian General," and Miss Li Teh-chuan, of the Young Women's Christian Association, has been announced in Peking, according to the Chung Mei News Agency. The announcement was made in a novel way at a tiffin party given at the home of Mrs. F. T. Sung, Shih Chia Hutung, where during the course of the party a picture of the General and his fiancee was suddenly uncovered. The picture is the work of a student of the Peking Academy.

Miss Li is a graduate of Yen Ching University and since her graduation she has been teacher in the American Board Mission Girls' School and more recently secretary of the Peking Y. W. C. A.

It is probable that the wedding will not take place for some little time, General Feng's wife having died only a few months ago.

SCHOOLS TAKE UP FINANCIAL LAPSE OF GOVERNMENT

Some Representatives Urge Strike Owing To Pay Failure

On account of the financial stringency of Kiangsu Province, government school representatives met at the Kiangsu Educational Association yesterday to formulate plans to re-open the schools for the Spring term. The radical teachers favored a general strike until Yen Chia-chi, the Financial Commissioner, is able to raise funds to operate their institute, while the moderates decided to make a demand on Yen, urging him not to devote the provincial funds to military use but to allot the funds provided for in the budget to educational institutions only.

No definite decision was reached and the delegates will meet again today at the association. The meeting also went on record to refrain from discussing the question of the levy of the 20 percent surtax on cigarettes which the provincial authorities declared would be used for educational purposes, because the teachers considered this as an administrative move on the part of the Civil Governor, and felt that any discussion before the receipt of the actual money from the provincial treasury would be premature.

There has been no payment to the schools from the government since last July.

The Foreign Women's Home

BY IRENE CORRALLY KUHN

They are baby twins. But there the similarity ends, for, except in the fact that they blinked into the world about the same time a year ago, they are as different as blonde and brunette can be. The girl is chubby and dark, with smokey blue eyes, geranium cheeks and brown silk hair that is beginning to break into little wayward skeins. The brother is neither so active, pretty nor vivacious. His straight blonde hair and pale blue eyes give him a Scandinavian rather than a Russian appearance.

The twins spend most of their time sucking their fingers and surveying the world from behind the bars of the crib they share. The world in their case is a clean but severely plain room and a smiling young grandmother who speaks no English but understands the universal language of the human smile.

These babies are only two of eight small wisps of humanity that have been washed ashore into the haven of the Foreign Women's Home from the Russian catastrophe. When, fifteen years ago, the idea of a home in Shanghai for destitute foreign women had its inception in the far-seeing brains of Mrs. MacGillivray and others there was no notion that the home would assume the importance it has now. But with the Russian problem no nearer solution today than on the day when the community first awoke to the startling realisation that the "Russian situation" had expanded into a difficult, baffling problem, it is fortunate that there is such a place as the foreign women's home.

WORK IS ENLARGED

Within the last year or two the need for the home has developed tremendously and the work has gradually been enlarged to accommodate the need. In the days before the Russian "problem" while Shanghai was simply a city where white women got into desperate straits in small numbers and rather infrequently, the Home got along very well in its small way, with Municipal aid and private subscriptions. But when the floodgates from the North were opened and wave upon wave of helpless Russians swept into the city, the small shelter automatically expanded to aid the neediest ones, in the way that good institutions that practise practical charity always do.

The three workers, Mrs. Donald, Miss Wade and Mrs. Ovcinko, experienced, last summer, the sensation of the summer resort hotel keeper at the height of the season with so many guests he doesn't know what to do. The spacious 20-room house down Wayside way was filled to capacity with more than 44 foreign women and children who, except for the Home, would have been sleeping in the streets like the Chinese beggars.

The average roster of the home is 28. Just now, there are 14 women and 8 babies, the youngsters ranging in age from the 3 months' infant that belongs to a frail 20-year old deserted girl-wife to the 8-year-old who rocks the baby's cradle. At the other end of the life cycle is the 81-year-old woman, sitting and sewing, and waiting for the summer when her children will be able to take her to America.

The Home gives food and shelter to foreign women who need it, until such time as they are able to find relatives or to obtain positions that will maintain them. Many of the women now in the Home work out but at such wages that they could not live any place else, for where can one get food and a warm bed for $5 or even $2 a month? In order to encourage the feeling of independence that is present in those who go out after jobs and get them, at heart-breaking wages, the Home accepts a pittance from them for their board. Those who cannot obtain work help in the Home, by keeping it clean, by sewing and embroidery and in the ordinary duties of laundrywomen.

The only Chinese who are employed in the Home are the cook and a boy who does the heaviest work, for most of the women are frail and undernourished when they enter.

There has just been added to the house a good-sized laundry with a stove which supplies hot water two or three times a week. There is, in the laundry, besides the regular tubs for washing clothes, a small tub which serves as a bath for the babies. In the interest of economy, the babies are washed on the same days with the clothes and linen, when there is plenty of hot water.

There are baths throughout the house for the women and the superintendent, Miss Wade, the industrial worker, Mrs. Donald, and Mrs. Ozcinko, the housekeeper, see that a high standard of cleanliness is maintained.

LINEN-SALE THURSDAY

The food, prepared under the direction of the housekeeper, is plain but nourishing and, since most of the women in the Home are Russians, is Russian in character. There are no frills on the food but while there are not many courses there is plenty for everyone.

Just now, the women are sewing under the direction of Mrs. Donald, on articles which will be offered at the annual sale of the Home. The sale this year will be held at the Carlton on Thursday, February 14, from 3 to 7 p.m., and on Friday from 10 to 12 and from 3 to 7.

There will be offered for sale fancy linen and dress goods, lingerie and Korean dress materials. Besides, there will be stalls under the auspices of the American Woman's Club and the B.W.A. Social Service board, where home products and fancy goods may be bought.

POLICE OFFICE HERE IS AGAIN WARM ISSUE

The question of the appointment of a successor to General Hsu Kuo-liang, Chief of the Chinese Constabulary, is now again hanging fire as a result of the issuance by the Sun Pao-chi Cabinet, of a certificate of appointment to Sun Tseng-kan, the Nanking nominee. The certificate having reached Nanking last week, Sun came to Shanghai early this week armed with the document with the hope of assuming office.

Meanwhile, three Chinese organisations of Shanghai have jointly issued a manifesto, denouncing the attempt of the Nanking authorities to remove Lu Yung-chien, the present incumbent, whom they consider the logical successor to Hsu in view of his 12 years of experience in Shanghai.

It is alleged that the certificate was issued by Peking upon the demand of Tuchun Chi Shih-yuan of Nanking, who made it a condition if Premier Sun Pao-chi wished recognition from Nanking at the outset of his own appointment.

The manifesto also regarded the issuance of the certificate as an act of Peking and Nanking to defy the people in their legitimate claim for proper police protection. The public bodies are the Kiangsu Self-Determination Society, the People's Self-Government Society of Shanghai and the Street Unions of Western Shanghai.

substitution for and competition with other food grains is not usually excessive. Maize and other grain compete to some extent for starch manufacture, brewing and feeding of cattle.

JAPANESE CROP

In Siam the carry-over is said to have increased considerably and in spite of small floods the prospects are favorable. The crop in Japan has suffered considerable damage and is estimated at 7,839,000 tons as against 8,494,000 tons last season. The estimated crop in Korea shows an increase of over five percent. The United States and Ceylon show decreases. The estimated Java crop is slightly over normal.

Although Burma contributes only 13 percent to the total production of rice in India, nearly all of the Indian exports of rice abroad are from Burma, which can export over 1,800,000 tons to foreign countries, or nearly as much as Siam and Indo-China combined, and whose total exports including those to Indian ports usually exceed 2¼ million tons, this accounting directly or indirectly for the whole of the surplus exports. Of the principal importing countries, South China deals mainly in the rice of Indo-China and Siam. The trade of Burma with Hongkong and South China ports is comparatively small, although in the last three years an exceptional demand has considerably increased it. There is a small trade between Burma and Shanghai which expanded considerably in 1923. The bulk of Burma's foreign exports go to Great Britain, Germany and the Netherlands and to Ceylon, the Straits Settlements and sometimes Java and Japan.

Small Fire Occurs In Mahriah's Shop

Hongkew and Central Divisions responded to a call to a fire at the Astor House Hotel at 7.01 a.m. The fire, however, was found to be at Mahriah's, a millinery shop at No. 6 Broadway and smoke was issuing from the window on the first floor above the shop. An entrance was made through the window by means of a ladder, but the fire had been practically extinguished by the Astor House staff who had tackled it from the rear with a line from the hotel installation. An ironing-table and a quantity of material on it were affected and the smoldering remains were removed into the yard at the back of the shop. At the same time the millinery and show cases in the shop were sheeted up and the water damage was consequently not great.

It appears that an electric iron had been left on and had ignited the table.

The Edmore, which also went ashore on Quelpart Island at the same time, has arrived safely at Nagasaki but because of the crowded condition of the dockyards it may be sometime before the necessary repairs can be made. If the vessel is delayed long arrangements will be made to forward the Shanghai cargo by some other vessel.

OLYMPIC GAMES COMPETITIONS TO RUN 3 MONTHS

Big Events To Be Contested During Week Of July 5—13

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Dec. 31.—Competitions in the Eighth Olympic Games in Paris next year will occupy the greater part of May, June and July, according to the revised schedule just published by the French Olympic committee.

Beginning in May with the Rugby and Association football trials, the culminating point of the Olympics will come with the great athletic week, July 5 to 13.

After the conclusion of the winter sports at Chamonix on Feb. 6, the next Olympic competition will come with Rugby football, from May 3 to May 19, and with soccer football from May 15 to June 5. These matches will take place in the new Colombes Stadium for the semi-finals and finals, the elimination trials having been held at Pershing Stadium, the Velodrome Parc de Princes, the Buffalo and Bergeyre Stadiums.

FESTIVALS

Then will come the ceremonial opening of the games, which will be preceded by a festival commemorating the thirtieth anniversary of the resumption of the Olympiad. The festival will be celebrated on June 23. Two ceremonies one in the Notre Dame Cathedral in the morning and the other in the evening at the Sorbonne, will be the main features of the day. The following day a gala performance will be given at the Opera.

The delegates from the Federations of Sports and Athletics represented at the Games, after having been officially received by President Millerand at the Elysee on July 3, will be the guests of the French Olympic committee at a banquet.

Finally, at two o'clock in the afternoon of July 5, the solemn ceremony of the official opening of the games will take place at the Colombes Stadium.

From that day until July 27, the various Olympic events will be contested, while numerous Con[illegible] of Sporting Federations will be held.

THE SCHEDULE

The revised schedule of the games follows:

Athletics, Colombes Stadium, July 5 to 13;
Pentathlon, Colombes Stadium, July 17 to 23;
Lawn-Tennis, Colombes Stadium, July 13 to 20;
Gymnastics, Colombes Stadium, July 17 to 23;
Equestrian Games, Colombes Stadium, July 21 to 27.

Swimming competitions will be held at the new Stadium of the Porte des Tourelles from July 17 to July 23.

The polo games are scheduled for the Bois-de-Boulogne and Saint Cloud from June 19 to July 4.

The shooting competitions will take place as follows: the deer-hunting shoot at Satory; clay pigeon shooting at Issy-les-Moulineaux; long distance target shooting at Chalons and shorter distances at Rheims, from June 21 to June 29.

Rowing races will be held at Argenteuil on the Seine River, about one mile from the Colombes Stadium, from July 13 to July 17.

For the "Sports de Combat," as the French committee terms boxing, wrestling, weight-lifting, bar-bell and fencing, the use of the Cirque de Paris, in the center of Paris, has been secured.

The dates are:

Graeco-Roman wrestling, July 6 to July 9.
Catch-as-catch-can, July 10 to July 13.
Boxing, July 15 to 20.
Weights, July 21 to 24.
Fencing, July 20 to 27.

TRAGEDY

By Westa

MONDAY night, about midnight, it snew a little. If it had snowed a little more the job of making a snow man to surprise Betty when she awoke the next morning would have been much less difficult. As it was, with scarcely half an inch of the fleecy but all too transient flakes covering the lawn the creation of the snow man proved a back breaking task.

Snow men as a rule are content enough to grow fat. Back in the old days on the Iowa farm we used to make them so fat and roly poly—always with their own hearty co-operation and approval—that they often would fall apart from their own weight. But not this Shanghai snow man! He had all of a society queen's intense desire to possess a sylph-like form, plus a strength of will (so universally lacking in his human prototypes) to gratify that wish. Rolling that part of him that was to become his torso, the whole, back breaking length of the snow dappled lawn added less than nothing, it seemed, to his shrivelled girth, and it was only by hours of stooped toil that could have been accomplished in as many minutes if it had snew a few more, that he was induced to let his belt out a notch or two.

Persistency usually brings its reward, however, and so at last he became quite a Falstaffian snow man, as revealed by the accompanying photograph. And needless to say, Betty was tickled pink!

THE members of the short story club and other more or less finiky and technical persons will begin to suspect, remembering the warmth with which the sun smole yesterday, that no sooner was the snow man brought into being than he was forthwith reduced to rain water, and that this, to the starved mind of his creator and chronicler, constituted tragedy.

Nothing of the sort! Thank heaven the author of this column is not yet driven to such threadbare subterfuges!

THE element of tragedy did not enter until yesterday noon, at the tiffin table, where my favorite author remarked to the distinguished company present that in the dead solitude of the previous night, while he had been engaged in the laborious task of constructing the snow man, the Frenchtown air had been suddenly rent by an ear splitting crash of glass and wood from the direction of the garage, and that subsequent investigation on his part had failed to locate either the source of the noise (which was more of an explosion than a mere noise) or any result that could be attributed to it.

Whereupon Betty's daddy (the same being Carl Crow, Inc.) explained, simply, that the Indian watchman who sleeps in the electric car in the garage had put an apple in his pocket when he went to work, against a possible hunger in the still watches of the night, and that as he slept a rat had crawled into his pocket, seeking the apple, and by mistake had nipped his finger; whereat the watchman had kicked the throttle open causing the car to bust through a raft of screens, picture frames and other bric a brac that stood along a side wall, and finally to crash through the garage door and out into the yard, where the brunette Sikh, who by that time had become a dizzy blonde, had managed to get the controller lever back into neutral.

"Just one of those little mischances," Betty's daddy added, "that are apt to occur, occasionally, in any well regulated family."

SPEAKING of rats, (Betty's daddy went on, reminiscently) reminds me of one that used to make his headquarters in the composing room of a newspaper for which I worked back in Texas years ago. It seems that the linotype operators had been bothered by rats, so one day they caught a big fellow in a trap and instead of drowning him they put a bell around his neck, tying it on securely with a stout string.

"Well, after that there was a gradual decrease in the rat population of that office. One by one the other rats went away from there, and I have often reflected, because of the nature of that exodus, that rats must be governed by the same impulses and motives that control the actions of men."

At this, naturally, there was a lifting of eye brows on the part of the distinguished company present; even Betty looked up from her custard with an expression on her pretty face that seemed to suggest that her young mind was questioning, perhaps for the first time, the infallibility of her parent.

"When a man gets into trouble," her daddy went on, "his friends desert him. The first to go are his false friends. Then the casuals drop out of his picture, and then one by one the others go; some actuated by fear and all actuated more or less by selfishness, each shrewdly and selfishly calculating that further contact may lead to contamination, until at last only the man's relatives and perhaps one or two thick-and-thin companions are left.

"Frequently a man's own relatives—those who are nearest and dearest to him—will desert him in a crisis of his life, until at last there is only one friend left; only one of the former multitude who continues to believe in him and to have faith in him. You've noticed that; that always there is one friend left.

WELL, that is exactly what happened in the case of this rat. At first there was a general exodus, leaving only a few rats in the office. These we figured were the bell rat's relatives. For a time they staid with him, although we noticed that they grew more and more distant and aloof. Eventually the company dwindled to five, the four others we concluded being the bell rat's parents and an aunt and uncle. Then the aunt and uncle left—Aunt Sal and Uncle Sam we used to call them—and then one rateful day we discovered that the other two had vanished.

That left the bell rat with but a single friend in the shop, he being Old Ben, the office cat. For a long time after that the bell rat and Old Ben were great friends. They ate together, slept together and played together, although Old Ben was somewhat rheumatic and didn't care much for sports. It was a great friendship while it lasted.

But the everlasting tinkle of that little bell eventually got on Old Ben's nerves, so that he became, first quarrelsome and then openly hostile.

That broke the bell rat's heart completely, so that none of us was surprised one morning when we walked into the shop and discovered that the bell rat, sometime during the night, had climbed up on a type case, and after carefully measuring the distance, had leaped for a nail on which one of the printers hung his hat, in such a way as catch the string by which the bell was attached to his neck, thus making the instrument of his isolation a weapon for his own self destruction."

Paper Hunt Film At Carlton Is Full Of Thrills

The British-American Tobacco Company's "Town Topics" showing at the Carlton this week—a picture of one of the last paper hunts—is filled with thrills and spills even as the advertisements claim. Practically all of the paperhunt enthusiasts in Shanghai have already seen the picture, some of them twice, and still others are going again.

The film gives an oppotunity of seeing many of the interesting jumps made at even greater advantage than one could watch the hunts in person and the spills, particularly the bad one sustained by Mr. Craddock, are seen to excellent advantage. The paper hunt picture will continue at the Carlton all week in addition to "Rupert of Hentzau," the feature picture now being shown.

Elaborate Preparations Made For World Flight By U. S. Army Aviators

Start Will Be Made From Seattle, Washington On April 1 On Course Across Pacific By Way Of Aleutian Islands To Nagasaki

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Army Air Service Board considering the around the world flight decided today that the attempt would be made "on or about April 1 next," and would start from Seattle.

"The around the world flight," said a statement issued by the board, "is expected to leave Seattle on or about April 1 next, when it will proceed upward along the coast of Alaska en route to the Aleutian Islands. It is expected that each of the four Douglas world cruisers, the planes selected for the flight, will have six changes of motors before the circumnavigation of the globe by air is finally concluded."

Lieut. Clayton L. Bissel, advance officer of the first division of the flight, will be sent to Attu Island, Aleutian group, to investigate airway and landing facilities. He will leave here January 12.

The flight is divided into six divisions, the second extending from Attu Island to Nagasaki, the third ending at Calcutta, the fourth at Constantinople, the fifth at Hull and the sixth at Washington.

Lieuts. La Claire Schulze and Leslie Arnold, two of the army aviators who have been chosen to take part in the attempt to fly around the world next spring, have gone into training preparatory to the trip at Langley Field, Va. They will go through an intensive course of preparation under the direction of Major F. L. Martin.

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 8.—Details of the round-the-world flight of United States Army aviators, starting from Seattle, April 2, have been made public by Maj. Henry H. Arnold, commander of Rockwell Field, and Lieut. Virgil Hinds, post adjutant.

The complete plans call for Major F. L. Martin, squadron commander; Lieut. Erik H. Nelson, squadron engineer officer; Capt. Lowell H. Smith, and Lieut. Leigh Wade to leave Langley Field, Va., for the Davis Douglass plant at Santa Monica, March 1. At the Davis Douglass plant the four army fliers will take over the air cruisers built especially for the flight and will fly them to Rockwell Field, where the initial trial flights will be held.

From San Diego, the four airmen will fly to Seattle, where they will hop off on the first leg of the 39,000-mile voyage over the air lanes of 22 foreign countries. It originally was intended to start the world trip from Langley Field. This, however, would have necessitated the fliers winging their way twice across the American continent.

The first leg of the flight, from Seattle to Attu Island, at the westerly tip of the Alutians (Aleutians), will be under the supervision of Lieut. Clayton L. Bissell.

The flight from Attu Island across the Bering Sea to the Kamchatka peninsula on the Siberian coast, and southward along the islands of Japan, will be controlled by Lieut. Clifford C. Nutt.

The third division, from Nagasaki, Japan, to Calcutta, India, will be in charge of Lieut. M. S. Lawton.

The fourth division, from Calcutta over the Persian Gulf and the Bosporus to Constantinople, will be in charge of Lieut. H. A. Halvorsen. Lieutenant Halvorsen now is in the Philippines. He will leave Manila this week for Calcutta to confer with British air service officials on the Calcutta-Constantinople airway.

The fifth leg, from Constantinople to London, will be in charge of Maj. Carlisle Walsh. This route already is well mapped by the British.

The sixth leg, from London up the shores of Iceland and Greenland and southward to the Canadian border, will be in charge of Lieut. Clarence Crumrine. For the last four months Lieutenant Crumrine, operating out of Copenhagen and being afforded every assistance by the Danish Government, has been engaged in selecting suitable landing places in Greenland and Iceland.

The purposes of the flight, as announced by Maj-Gen. Mason Patrick, chief of the United States Army Air Service, are threefold: First, to demonstrate the possibility of dispatching military airplanes on long-distance flights with a satisfactory arrangement of the enormous supply problems involved; second, to demonstrate the feasibility of a world airway and of traversing this airway in the shortest time possible, and, third, to bring the United States the honor of being the first to circumnavigate the world by air.

America is not going to achieve the feat without a picturesque battle. Great Britain and Portugal have been preparing for months for around-the-world flights, and it is significant that both these countries will attempt the globe air voyage, it is reported, April 2, the date set for the American air squadron to hop off from the shores of Puget Sound.

CLAIRE WINDSOR
NORMAN KERRY
BARBARA BEDFORD
and many others

The court was in an uproar! At the very height of what had proven to be one of the most sensational trials ever held, another startling thrill was thrown to the eager crowd that filled the great court. Six people were suspected of having murdered Andrew Prentice; vainly they struggled to escape the grasp and scrutiny of the law! Vainly the tense crowd tried to sense upon whom the guilt would fall!

This picture made from one of the most successful, sensational mystery plays ever written will baffle you and keep you guessing to the very end. You'll wonder how it is going to end and who is going to find love and happiness when the storm of its trials and turmoils have cleared away. The most startling, entertaining mystery picture you've ever seen!

With a stupendous cast of film stars, magnificent sets, making it the most sumptuous production of a baffling mystery ever to reach the screen!

Directed by Clarence Brown

OLD BILL'S
Adventures in America
by Bruce Bairnsfather.

Seeing The President

BILL and I came to Washington by day in order to see the country as we went along. Between New York and Philadelphia I should say there was some very nice country behind the bill boards. We got a glimpse through a crack between a chewing gum and a collar ad, and it certainly looked good. It was dark by the time we got to Washington, and we drove in a taxi through the lamp-lit streets to our hotel. We narrowly escaped being made into a club sandwich by two cars, and arrived at the hotel. There is a great air about Washington. It seems to be composed of nitrogen, oxygen and government. The first two are nothing but gas. Over in Europe the other one is as well.

"Captain," said Bill, "it's funny to think that tonight we'll be sleeping in the same town as the President. I'm to write home about that. My old woman won't believe me."

"I'll try to see that you get a look at the President before you go."

"You got influence with a cop?"

"Why, Bill?"

"I thought you could arrange for me to climb a street lamp post some place."

"No, what you'll have to do is join a delegation, or be one."

"What's that?"

"Well, a delegation is a crowd of people who want to see the President. They call themselves delegations. I imagine the President calls them something else."

"I better be a delegation."

"Yes, Bill. You must have come from a long ways off with a great wrong, in your heart, to be righted. That makes you a delegation and you set out to bother the President. Tap at the front door of the White House and he'll come right out. If he's not there knock at the side door of the Capitol and send your card in to the Senate. Something hard, I exp ct."

"There's one other thing I want to see while I'm here."

I turned and looked at Bill, for his voice sounded different, somehow.

"What is that, Bill?"

"Well Captain, they tell me over out there, somewhere beyond the city, is a place called Arlington, and there's a pal of mine out there. (America's Unknown Soldier. I just want to take a small flower or two along with me and leave it with him. If I could only write, Captain, write nice and clear and what I mean, as it were, I'd leave a card there as well and on it I'd put this——"

Old Bill fumbled in a pocket and produced a faded sheet of folded note paper and handed it to me. I opened it and read:

"To the great Unknown American who went three thousand miles to bring Armistice Day nearer, and without whom we could not have won the war.

"From his pal,

"BILL."

The 346,000,001st Delegation going to the WHITE HOUSE, for the first time, to present the case for free Mah Jong for soldiers!

The Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd.

NOTICE is hereby given that an Extraordinary General Meeting of The Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., will be held at The Hongkong Hotel, Victoria, in the Colony of Hongkong, on Wednesday, the 13th day of February, 1924, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, when the subjoined Resolutions will be proposed as Extraordinary Resolutions:—

(1) "That the authorized Capital of the Company (which is now $5,000,000 consisting of 500,000 Shares of the nominal value of $10 each whereof 375,000 have been issued) be increased from $5,000,000 consisting as aforesaid to $10,000,000 (consisting of 1,000,000 Shares of the nominal value of $10 each by the creation of 500,000 additional Shares of the nominal value of $10 each ranking (subject as hereinafter mentioned) as from date of allotment for dividend and in all other respects pari passu with the Shares constituting the Company's present issued capital."

(2) "That in the first instance 375,000 Shares be offered at par (in the proportion of one new Share for every one old Share held by them respectively) to the persons who on the date of the confirmation of this Resolution as a Special Resolution are registered in the Company's Share Register as the holders of the 375,000 old Shares, and so that on acceptance of the offer the nominal amount due in respect of such 375,000 new Shares shall be payable as to the sum of $5 part thereof on acceptance of such offer and as to the balance thereof on the 30th day of June 1924. And further that until such time as the said 375,000 new Shares shall be fully paid they shall vis-a-vis the said 375,000 old Shares, rank for dividend only in proportion to the ratio borne by the amount paid up thereof to the full nominal value ($10) thereof, and that any of the said 375,000 new Shares which shall not be taken up by the Company's Shareholders in manner aforesaid be disposed of in such manner as the Company's Board of Directors shall think fit.

(3) "That such offer be made by Notice specifying the number of Shares to which the member is entitled and limiting a time within which the offer if not accepted by the member on behalf of himself or his nominee will be deemed to be declined and that the Directors be at liberty to fix such time and in the case of Shareholders whose place of address is not in Hongkong to extend it to such date or dates as they may think fit."

(4) "That the balance of 250,000 Shares constituting the Company's unissued Capital be issued at such time or times in such manner and for such purposes and upon such terms and conditions in every respect as the Company's Board of Directors may decide."

(5) "That the Regulations contained in the printed document submitted to the Meeting and for the purpose of identification subscribed by the Chairman thereof be approved and adopted as the Articles of Association of the Company in substitution for and to the exclusion of all the existing Articles thereof."

AND NOTICE IS HEREBY ALSO GIVEN that a further Extraordinary General Meeting of the Company will be held at the same place on Thursday the 28th day of February 1924 at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of receiving a Report of the proceedings of the abovementioned Meeting and of confirming if thought fit as Special Resolutions the above-mentioned Resolutions.

The TRANSFER BOOKS of the Company will be closed from Thursday the 21st day of February 1924 to Thursday the 28th day of February 1924 (both days inclusive) during which period no transfer of shares can be registered.

The suggested new Articles of Association are similar to the old subject to clerical alterations and to the following alterations of substance, viz:—

(2) The alteration of the minimum number of Directors to four and of the maximum number to seven.

(3) The alteration of the remuneration of Directors to payment at the rate of Four thousand dollars per annum and such sums as a General Meeting may determine instead of the fixed sum of Three thousand dollars per annum and such sums as a General Meeting may determine.

(4) The alteration of the quorum of Directors to three instead of two.

(5) The addition of Articles enabling the appointment by the Directors of a Local Board or Advisory Committee in any place at a remuneration to be fixed by the Articles and the appointment by the Directors of Local General Managers, Secretaries or other Assistants, delegates or Attorneys at a remuneration to be fixed by the Directors.

(6) The addition of an Article enabling the Company to have an Official Seal and Local Registers in places outside the Colony.

Eight Formosans Killed At Amoy By Chinese Detectives

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 9.—According to Japanese telegrams eight Formosans have been killed at Amoy by Chinese detectives during the last month, on February 6 detectives attempted to arrest two Formosans and the incident created a good deal of uneasines among the Formosans. There had been a certain amount of excitement for several weeks, but it reached a climax on that day. Fearing that the situation would lead to serious disorders, the Japanese Consul-General sent for a Japanese gunboat which was expected to arrive on February 8. The Formosans appear to have been killed during arrests.

Socialists Lose In German Elections

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Feb. 11.—The elections to the new Thuringian Diet have resulted in a crushing defeat for the Socialists, who have hitherto had a strong majority in the Diet but are now replaced by the bourgeois bloc. From eighty to ninety percent of the elpctorate voted. The result is symptomatic of the general swing towards the Right, which is occurring in Germany and will undoubtedly be repeated at the general elections to the Reichstag, probably in June. The election to the Diet of the Free State of Luebeck has also converted the Socialist majority into a minority against the bourgeois parties.

Father Van Praet Still In Hands Of Bandit Captors At Suiyuan

Peking, Feb. 9.—The Belgian Father Van Praet is still in the hands of his bandit captors in Suiyuan. A second Priest is now negotiating with the leaders at the request of the Tutung Ma Fu-hsiang but as yet no satisfactory arrangement has been reached. The bandits want to be recognised as a unit of the national army and until that is done they will not release their foreign prisoner.

It is thought that Father Van Praet is held either at Tanor or Shounor but communication with him is very difficult. It was learned, however, that he is suffering from an injured knee which prevented his travelling a distance of some seventy miles over which the bandits wanted to take him. Whether he received his injury from a fall or bad treatment is unknown.

100 DELEGATES IN ATTENDANCE AT NANKING MEETING

Doctors Guests O' Honor At Chinese Reception

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, Feb. 11.—The fourth day of the Fifth Biennial Conference of the National Medical Association, which is now holding its sessions in the Gymnasium of the South Eastern University, Nanking, was held on Sunday afternoon, in contradiction to the usual custom of holding the sessions in the morning. There were approximately one hundred delegates present, it being, however, impossible to state with precision the exact size of the attendence, for, as some of the delegates leave the conference others are arriving. The following are the papers that were read during the session:

"The eradication of the opium menace in China" by Dr. S. H. Chuan.

"Standard physical examination" by Dr. S. M. Woo.

"Health centers" by Dr. V. Appleton.

"The true spirit of scientific investigation from a medical point of view" by Dr. P. C. Kiang.

"Some experiences in public health work at Hangchow" by Dr. K. C. Wong.

At the coaclusion of the reading of the above papers, Dr. C. W. Woodworth, Prof. of Entomology of South Eastern University, delivered a short interesting talk on entomology in which he emphasized chiefly on his eneriences in the destruction of flies and mosquitoes in Nanking, which was appreciated to the highest extent by all the attending delegates.

At 7:30 p.m. a reception was given in honor of the delegates by Z. O. Wong, the Commissioner of Police, and by the Y. M. C. A. The program consisted of an opening speech by Mr. B. S. Wun, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, an address of welcome by the host, Mr. Z. O. Wong, which was responded by Dr. E. S. Tyau, President of the National Medical Association, by an expression of appreciation and thanks, a speech on public health by Dr. J. King, practical demonstration of the newly invented Chinese code used by the police, and cinematograph.

"THE BACHELOR GIRL"

Adapted to the screen from Victor Marguerite's famous novel La GARCONNE with FRANCE DHELIA in the leading role. An actress of unusual beauty and grace, at the flood tide of glorious womanhood and with her abundant talents in full flower, FRANCE DHELIA delivers the most spectacular hit of her brilliant career.

In this work the famous author has elaborated his grand idea of equality of the sexes, and he desires his heroine, the bachelor girl, to be taken as typical of the necessary stages in the great struggle for women's emancipation.

As in the beginning of every great movement mistakes are unavoidable, so he fortells, through the errors made by his heroine, that a day will come when the feebler sex, set free from the narrow ideas of tradition, will be conceded the rights —hitherto despotically monopolized by the stronger sex—and that the hour is very near when both sexes will work side by side harmoniously.

Anatole France says:—The bachelor girl is the exact reflexion of the present state of post-war society. She is absolutely virtuous, and those who hypocritically cry down this masterpiece would do better if they treated themes just as moral.

In GORGEOUS SETTING with bewilderingly.
LAVISH COSTUMES and an INCREDIBLY FASCINATING STAR is presented in this most SUMPTUOUS and PULSATING photodrama.

Russia and Recognition

THE speech of M. Kameneff, President of the Russian state, delivered before the Congress of Soviets a few days ago throws new light on the frame of mind in which the Soviets are entering into treaties with England and Italy and contradicts much of the enthusiasm recently displayed over the final "collapse" and capitulation of the communist program. Even discounting the fact that the address was intended for publicity purposes, its content makes certain that the Russian outlook upon world relations has not materially changed and that any gains thus far made at the expense of communist authority have been negligible.

Predictions about events in Russia during the last two years have usually gone wrong by failing to distinguish between strategy and fundamental policy. It has been an easy error to make. Leaders of revolutions in the past have themselves failed to make the distinction and we have had no precedent by which to judge the curious spectacle of Russia's success. The success of the Russian revolution has been almost entirely due to the keenness of its leaders in distinguishing between shifts in policy which were real and those which were of only tactical importance. Judged from this point of view losses to the communist campaign appear to be much exaggerated and over estimated.

Power is a factor the importance of which has come to be understood very clearly in world affairs since the collapse of Mr. Wilson's idealism. The Russian leaders understand its significance thoroughly. They have determined that at whatever cost, that whatever retreats they were forced to make they will not surrender their power over the Russian state until it is taken from them by force. It is for that reason that the Red Army and the press have been the two most cultivated and zealously protected instruments of government and that within the state, affairs have been centralised in the hands of sternly disciplined Communist Party members with a meticulous care and an efficiency which even Bismark would have envied.

With power in their hands the Communist leaders have been confident of surviving any number of minor economic retreats. Observe that every concession thus far made to capital or to capitalistic states has been skillfully manipulated to leave final control both political and economic in the hands of the Russian administration. Profits, the government has been willing to concede; the old debts, they have since the beginning been willing to pay if necessary (and they will undoubtedly now be paid)—all as toll, but control over the destinies of the Russian people the leaders have been at no point ready to surrender in any degree. Their power within Russia today is as unchallenged and absolute as it was in 1918, if not more so.

The Communist leaders are canny enough to understand that the one serious menace to their ironclad hold on affairs is the hunger of their people. Well-employed, well-clothed, well-fed peoples do not revolt. The mass of any people is indifferent to the FORM of its government; it demands, however, that its economic needs be satisfied. An idle Russia, a shabby and hungry Russia will toss the Communist Party out of power with as little ceremony, one of these days, as it did the Czar and his court.

Lest she starve, Russia must have machinery and a vast supply of goods at once—this year. Her mills must be revised so that for the cereal and dairy products from the country the cities will have something to exchange. The nation must get on a productive footing quickly if the Communist power is to be maintained. The treaties will do the trick. Supplies essential to Russian industry will now flood into Russia and the "prosperity" that follows will arouse such gratitude that there is not likely to be great popular disapproval if the government does yield a point in the original communist manifestos and pay off the Czarist debts. If any popular approval is aroused by the new concessions, it will be as quickly set aside and justified by the excellently managed Russian press as have other criticisms of policy.

All this is made unmistakeably clear in the address of Kameneff and in the notes which are now passing like shuttles between Moscow and London, Rome and other European capitals. The Soviets are willing to "open up" Russia, are willing to trade and to trade in gold, are willing to pay tolls in the form of interest, profit, back debts, but intend to surrender nothing of their power in the Russian State and none of their fundamental doctrines. They mean to protect the "conquests of communism" at home and to go forward as soon as practicable with the campaign abroad.

From the reopening of foreign relations, the Communist Party has everything to gain and nothing to lose. The Party strength is certain to be enhanced instead of diminished by the revival of production, the press can defend the administration against criticism, the propaganda bureaus can counteract the effect of capitalist contacts upon the popular mind. While renewed trade is a benefit also to the capitalist nations and is by all means desirable, let no one misjudge the effect of the treaties upon the destinies of the Communist Party. Communism is not taking the count by this new concession; it is rather shrewdly consolidating and fortifying its position.

Substituting Ballots For Bullets

SECRETARY HUGHES, according to a recent report, is determined to bring all possible pressure to bear to insure the substitution of ballots for bullets among the Latin-American republics to the South of the United States and in pursuit of this policy he recently permitted the Ins., as represented by President Obregon, to purchase arms and munitions in the United States and at the same time refused this privilege to the Outs or revolutionists as represented by General de la Huerta. Mexico has been in revolution now for practically a dozen years, but since 1921 there has been a semblance of order in which period President Obregon has been able to get a new constitution adopted and to get back on speaking terms with the rest of the world. But just when everything was running smoothly and foreign recognition was in sight one of the presidential candidates was able to get enough money and arms together to start another serious revolution.

The Administration at Washington was thus faced with two very difficult problems. It could remain strictly neutral and permit the new revolution to take its course with prospects of another long period of disorder and retrogression or it could lend aid to strengthen the constitutional government which was in existance and thereby help to preserve peace, order and established government. President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes chose the latter and the final results are awaited with interest, and especial interest in this part of the world for the reason that conditions in Mexico are not so terribly unlike conditions in China where revolutions and counter revolutions have been in progress since the Republic came into being about a dozen years ago.

When Taft was President the United States followed a strict policy of neutrality from the standpoint of arms sales to the contending factions of Mexico and Wilson followed the lead of Taft. Woodrow Wilson did intervene in Mexico to the extent of capturing the city of Vera Cruz and sending a column of troops under Persing into Northern Mexico but this was done only after Mexican outlaws had invaded American territory and the American flag had been insulted in the seaport, but the troops and marines were soon withdrawn. Now the present Administration after three years of neutrality has decided to intervene to the extent of selling arms to the constitutional government which is in power.

Again we say this is of interest out here because of similar conditions prevailing both in China and in respect to the attitude of the Powers. For several years the principal Powers have declared an embargo upon both arms and money to the contending factions of China in the hope that they would fight it out. But they have not been able to fight it out and conditions have steadily become worse until interior China from the standpoint of banditry and disorder resembles conditions which have prevailed for a considerable time in interior Mexico. We often wonder whether the Powers in the general interest of peace and order will not finally have to change their policy of benevolent neutrality and adopt the policy of supporting the faction which shows greatest hope of bringing order to the country. The next problem will then be to get the Powers to agree upon the faction to be supported!

A Paid Chairman?

THE annual report of the Shanghai Ratepayers' Association to which we referred in some of its aspects yesterday, deals—in addition to the subject of its lack of members—with a number of municipal affairs on which it took action during the past year and on one subject it has something to say which is worthy of some attention:

> A Permanent Paid Chairman Of The Council: Notwithstanding that the Land Regulations require the annual election of the chairman by the councillors, it is now generally, known that a movement is on foot to appoint a permanent paid chairman. It should prove difficult to ignore or change the provisions of the Land Regulations, but if the attempt to do so is made public opinion should emphatically oppose it on the grounds of economy and the violation of selective representation as well as for other reasons sufficiently obvious to require no special mention. No doubt many specious arguments will be adduced in support of the proposal, such as the importance of continuity of work and policy with the continuously changing personnel of the Council. This should be assured, however, through the permanency of the Secretariat and, as a matter of fact, it is the almost unbroken experience that the majority in every successive Council consists of members of the previous Council.

Whether the authors of the report in question are correct in their statement that a movement is afoot to appoint a permanent paid chairman of the Municipal Council or not does not affect the real issues which such a movement, when it crystallises into a definite proposal will raise. When the Land Regulations were drawn those responsible for them, like generations of other leading citizens of this International Settlement, had no conception of the size and importance which Shanghai was eventually to attain and they or those who immediately took over the governance of the settlement looked forward to the establishment of a Council, able to handle the affairs of the community in the time it could spare from the not very pressing demands of business.

But the time has changed from those days when the Council did little else than act as a sort of roads and drains committee. With the increase of the Settlement in size and the necessity of meeting the demands of its inhabitants the work devolving upon the Council has increased to such an extent that we find it delegating some of its functions to advisory committees, reserving to itself the executive duties of final consideration and adoption of the various reports submitted to it. It must be apparent that any councillor who is acting up to his responsibilities must give considerable time each week to our affairs, but the chairman has to devote several hours each day to office work on behalf of the people who have placed him in office. The work is exceptionally arduous as any who have had much to do with the Municipal Council will readily perceive, and it has to be impressed upon those who have not had that privilege, that the position of chairman of the Municipal Council is no sinecure. It does not consist of attending council meetings, and making pretty speeches at public functions. Imposing as the totals under the headings would undoubtedly be they would indicate only a small proportion of the work that a chairman of council has to perform, work done in his office amounting to hours each day.

It is clear that with the pressing demands made upon our big business men by the ordinary necessities of every day commerce, it is going to be more and more difficult as the years advance to attract to the chairmanship of the Council men who are fitted for the important work entailed by such a position. It is equally clear, we venture to think, that following the practice of some municipalities in both America and Britain, the head of our municipal service though still elected by the ratepayers via the council, should receive some sort of recompense for the enormous amount of work required of him. We do not think that anything along these lines would necessitate alteration of the Land Regulations for the incumbent of the chairmanship under such conditions as we have in mind, would be annually elected, thereby rendering his continuance in office a matter for annual consideration by a council which may or may not change its constitution as a result of the yearly elections. It is true that this is a different proposition from that involving the appointment of a paid chairman as a sort of permanent official. We are suggesting that the demands made upon the time of the councillor who consents to take up the hard work of chairman are such as to warrant the community paying for what it receives. There would be a double check upon him in that he would have to be elected a member of the council as a preliminary step and then elevated to chairman by a decision of the councillors themselves.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

The Lambs, who live across the street,
Are looked upon as being queer;
They seem to think that life's a treat,
Although they lost their cook last year;
They've not been poisoned on home brew,
They keep their debts paid right along;
You'll think it strange, but it is true—
They haven't fallen for Mah Jong.

Lamb isn't boasting that he knows
Where pre-war corn juice can be bought;
There is no reason to suppose
He tries to seem what he is not;
The Lambs are queer and you'd admit,
If you could know them, that they are;
Each year they save a little bit.
There is no mortgage on their car.

It seems that Mrs. Lamb can go
For weeks without a cigarette;
The Lambs, it may be said, are slow,
They have no radio, as yet;
Lamb says he doesn't care a rap
If others pass him when he drives;
A singular, eccentric chap,
He wouldn't scratch if he had hives.

Lamb from the Follies picked his wife,
His father cast him off, of course,
But she has never in her life
Obtained or wanted a divorce;
The stork brings, every other year,
A gift that they consider good;
The Lambs are very, very queer,
They scandalize the neighborhood.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

THE OUTING OF THE SOUL

The gospel of personal righteousness finds many voices; the gospel of a full and rich life, fed from all the divine sources of truth, beauty, and power, still needs advocates. The old atheism which shut God out of a large part of his world still lingers like those drifts of snow that, in secluded places, elude the genial sun. Men are as slow to learn the divinity of nature as they have been to learn the divinity of humanity; as slow to accept the revelation of nature as to accept that of the human soul.

It is difficult to realise how completely nature was lost to men during the Middle Ages; how comparatively untouched human life was by association with the countless aspects of sea and sky; how generally the union between men and the sublime house in which they lived was broken. For several centuries the great mass of men and women were so estranged from nature that they forgot their kinship. It is true that there were in every generation men and women to whom the beauty of the world did not appeal in vain, but it was a beauty obscured by mists of superstition, and the perception of which was painfully limited by lack of the deeper insight and the larger vision. Woods, flowers, and streams, so close at hand, so intimately associated with the richest experiences, could not wholly fail of that charm which they possess today; but while these lovely details were seen, the picture as a whole was invisible. The popular ballads and epics are not lacking in pretty bits of description and sentiment, but nature is wholly subordinate; the sublime background against which all modern life is set is invisible.

Jazz Age Started With Tut

BY ROBERT FORREST WILSON

Even our household furniture varies very little from the articles now being unearthed in the Valley of the Kings.

Among the many rare and strange looking objects of antiquity removed from the tomb of King Tutankhamen in Egypt last winter were several pieces which struck the American tourists as familiarly as did the Fords that had carried them out to the Valley of the Kings' Tombs from their hotels in Luxor. These were the chairs and other pieces of household furniture which the dead Emperor had taken with him into eternity to make comfortable the mansion of his soul.

Despite its hoary age, Tutankhamen's easy chair looked as if it might have come recently from some good furniture factory in Grand Rapids, Mich. The 1923 factory hand has made no essential advance over his Theban predecessor of 1350 B. C. There was this difference: the modern joiner has the advantage of machine lathes, of steel tools with razor edges, of modern abrasives and polishes; the Theban worked painfully with adze and with flint and bronze cutting tools. But when his work was done he had produced perfection.

Not only in the furniture of the Egyptians but in a score of other ways they were surprisingly modern. It is not impossible to discover in them a likeness to Americans. Consider some of their national traits set down here at random: In temperament they were nervous, volatile and sarcastic; they were devoted to the pursuit of pleasure, restlessly seeking entertainment wherever it might be found; we see them enthusiastic for innovations, especially foreign innovations.

Furthermore, they were inordinately fond of good food and wine, fastidious in dress and personal cleanliness, extremely social with their friends, lovers of outdoor sports, affectionate in family life, deferential to women, admirers of great size in buildings and cities, unwarlike by nature yet somehow always at war, patrons of medical and dental science.

At the time of festivals it was a favorite diversion for a group of friends to charter a sailboat on the Nile, load themselves and their families aboard, together with plenty of cold roast goose and well-filled jars of beer and wine, and float down the river on a grand outing. As they drifted past bank villages they diverted themselves by shouting jibes and laugh-provoking insults at the natives, an amusement that today in another country than theirs is called kidding the hicks. The latter gave back as good as they received, and if words were not hard enough they used clods. No doubt the merrymakers afloat got well heated with drink before night, for some of the excursions ended in bloody rows with the river folk.

It is with people who went on picnics and family rides and killed time by drawing funny pictures that we must populate Thebes if we are to know that city as it was familiar to Tutankhamen.

But however much he relished the chase or the shade of his garden, for the wealthy Theban the day was crowned by the evening banquet. No doubt the banquet we are describing began with soup. They were connoisseurs of good red beef. They knew how to fatten a young ox until its sirloins were thoroughly larded. All meat, fish and game was either stewed, broiled or roasted on the spit over hot coals. The range of vegetables was wide and their quality excellent, as in Egypt today, and the ancients were fond of them. Any house of any pretension at all had its own kitchen-garden from which the vegetables came fresh.

Potatoes, of course, they had none; but, as a substitute, green peas were in season for five months of the year. They also raised many beans of several varieties. Great quantities of onions were consumed, although priests were not allowed to eat them. Other common Egyptian vegetables were asparagus, lentils, cabbages, radishes and celery.

For salad they had lettuce and cucumbers, and olive oil for the dressing. As a garnish for the vension they had mint and as a condiment ripe olives preserved in oil. They also made a jelly of jujube fruits. For dessert there were pistachio nuts and such fruits in season a dates, figs, pomegranates, grapes and delicious melons. The desiccated remains of all these vegetables have been found in Nile tombs.—McCall's Magazine.

1923, And The New Year In Europe: A Review

(From Our Special Correspondent)

London, Jan. 1.—The passing of 1923 is not regretted on this side; one can only regret that its troubles have not passed with it.

The year has been one of fruitless struggles, muddling and makeshift. It has been a year of politics—rotten politics.

The European nations have been jockeying for position in the race of re-building the war-wrecked world, and at the end of the year they still find themselves muddled up at the starting post.

ENGLAND

It has been a difficult year for Old England; she has been sitting in on a losing game all the way through. The value of the pound sterling in New York has slid from 4.72 to 4.30.

Premier Baldwin's foot also slid. And the Labor Party has gained a march on the older political parties.

Papyrus was beaten by Zev, and a French horse won the Cesarewitch. But Joe Beckett beat his previous world's record by getting knocked out in five seconds. However, a miner's wife in Abergaveny gave birth to quintuplets, one of whom may develop into a "white hope".

England having given Ireland her freedom, the Irish were able to fight in peace.

Scotland might have gone dry, but everybody voted wet. The Scots persist in keeping their thirst as well as their accent.

Wales came out with the emphatic statement that Lloyd George is the greatest living Englishman, but as Wales lost in the football final, nobody took much notice. Lloyd George (and Megan) had a perfectly "topping" trip to America, and he might have remained to become the next President of the United States, but he hurried back home in the hope of beating Premier Baldwin on the Protection platform. Baldwin heard about it and beat him to it.

FRANCE

Militarism has been shifted from Germany to the other side of the Rhine, and Premier Poincare has shown signs of becoming a second Kaiser.

France has shown that she has plenty of money to finance the armaments of her little Entente, but not a centime for her creditors. As a matter of fact, she has made no bones about saying that she will not pay her debts to America and England until she recovers relevant reparations from Germany. Everyone knows France will never collect what she claims from Germany, which simply means that she never intends to settle up.

France's victory in the Ruhr has only been parallelled by Suzanne's victory on the tennis court. Carpentier retrieved his place in the boxing world by his lightning defeats of Beckett and Marcel Nilles.

French industries seem to have thrived on the depreciated franc, and her wines still flow freely. Unlike England, France has not been cursed with a great army of unemployed, the Ruhr occupation having given "employment" to a large number.

But after all, France suffered most in the war, which fact it is all too easy to overlook. There is no question but that she has made wonderful progress towards the rehabilitation of the devastated areas, and by her undaunted courage and hard work, she enjoys a relatively high degree of prosperity, as prosperity goes in Europe today.

GERMANY

Germany holds the world's record for the greatest number of changes in Government during a single year. Mostly all of her prominent men have had a chance to be Premier and be shot at. Germany found no money to pay reparations, as enormous sums were required to keep up passive resistance.

The mark has been tremendously popular, everybody having bought them, and, as evidence of their affection, they are keeping them. Many business men have papered their offices with them, in order to preserve the treasure. The price fell rather considerably, and it has been possible to buy for a penny, from the street hawkers in London, all the marks one could carry home. The rouble is now a piker compared with the high dive of the mark. But Germany will recover if her supply of beer holds out.

ITALY

Mussolini and his black shirts have taken the bull by the horns and told them all where to get off. Italy is at once a very old and a very new country. She has retrieved herself and secured a new lease on life. The word Mussolini has become a panacea for all political troubles.

Mussolini is one of the world's greatest men today, and by means to win a place for himself alongside Caesar and other great Romans.

And more power to his elbow.

SPAIN

This old country of hot climate and pretty women, showed sign of life, and deserves a place in the history of 1923, by having a bloodless revolution and installing a Dictator. King Alfonse says it is nice of General de Rivera to let him remain King.

The main history making event was the visit of the King and Queen to Rome. That visit may mean more than is generally realised.

AMERICA

The United States has been honored by a continuous stream of European lecturers, who have, for a good price of admission, explained America's debt to Europe. America, to show her appreciation, has announced that as far as the United States is concerned, it is more a question of Europe's debt to America.

But if the rum runners could be taxed on their profits, the debt could soon be settled.

Europe is not going to pay her debt to America, but Americans do not know it yet. They may get an inkling of it during 1924. The Reparations Commission is going to find that Germany cannot pay the total reparations claimed, which means that the Allies cannot pay America.

THE NEW YEAR

Hope springs eternal in youth, and young 1924 gives promise of things not worse than 1923, to say the least. Epinard is going to America, and may retrieve Papyrus' failure. Although Joe Beckett has definitely announced his retirement, it is understood in certain circles that Oxford and Cambridge intend to issue a combined challenge to Yale and Harvard for a six aside match at "Shove a' penny". Lastly, Mr. Duffitt, of Cheadle-cum-Hardy, who has not hitherto been able to get round St. Andrews in a week, owing to the course being closed on Sundays, has announced his intention of competing for the American Golf Championship. Evidently the old British spirit is far from extinct!

Why Cheese Is Valuable In The Diet

BY PRUDENCE PENNY

A way back in the ancient times, thousands of years before the Christian era, cheese was one of the main staples of diet.

The origin of the food is lost in the maze of antiquity, but there is a supposition as to its origin. You see, in the olden days the stomachs of animals were used as containers for the storage and transportation of liquids (in fact, in some countries this practice is still observed), and it is thought that one time milk was put into a stomach that was too fresh, or maybe was not properly freed of the mucous membrane containing rennin (rennet is used to coagulate milk and produce cheese, you know), and that cheese was thus accidentally discovered. However that may be, we do know that the Israelites, Greeks and Romans used cheese as a food ages ago.

To go into cheese making in detail would mean to use most of the paper today, but let me tell you one thing—cheese is made under the most scientific and sanitary conditions in our country, and cheese is truly one of our most important items of diet.

So often we lose sight of its food value, though, and we add it to our menu unthinkingly because of its flavor, then we overload our stomach and we say cheese is indigestible. It may be to some stomachs, but if properly used it is highly desirable, and should be eaten with discretion and with a proper respect for its power.

Cheese is a most valuable storage food, rich in flesh-forming and energy-producing material—in fact, so rich is cheese in nitrogen and fat that a meal of bread and cheese supplies the needs of the system as well as an elaborate meal from soup to nuts, providing leaf vegetables like lettuce or celery are eaten with it.

I am speaking of normally healthy people in this little chat, although there are some forms of illness or disease where even this food is prescribed because of its value to the human system.

Fitch tells us: "We have already learned that cheese contains moisture one-third, nitrogenous matter one-third and fat one-third in nearly equal proportions."

He goes further and, speaking of the caloric value of a pound of cheese, says: "The fuel or calorie value of cheese is high. A pound yields fully 2,000 calories of energy."

Think of this, my friend, when you add a few wee marbles of cream cheese to your salad, or add a generous slice of cheese to your serving of apple pie, for instance. Both the cheese and pie are actual body builders, and if you tack them onto a heavy dinner you are overloading the digestive system—that's why so many think pie is indigestible, when it is merely duplicating some of the other food one has already eaten.

And when you serve a perfectly delectable dessert or luncheon dish, say of cream cheese mashed and whipped to a creamy consistency with heavy cream, then molded into cups and filled with currant jam or jelly or raspberry jam, know that you are feeding your family pretty substantially.

And if you have toasted wafers with thin slices of cream cheese on them (a delightful accompaniment to a salad) know that again you are giving your guests or family real "he-food," as one friend of mine expresses it.

Cheese cooked with the paste, macaroni, spaghetti or noodles is splendid, combining the fat and nitrogen of the cheese with the starch of the paste. Or, as I said before, bread and cheese are good, and some people like to eat apples with this combination—which is good. Cheese incorporated into au gratin dishes or into "loaves" means a substantial meat substitute, so I suggest that you think over this cheese question and see if maybe you are not combining it with proteins and energy-producing foods which would be better served separately.

Obituary

MR. W. C. JORDAN
(Independent News Service)

Hankow, Feb. 8.—A telegram which reached Hankow on Sunday afternoon brought the sad news of the death of Mr. Wayne C. Jordan in Sianfu. He had been ill about two weeks with typhus fever, and died on Saturday, February 2. The news came as a great shock, and caused genuine sorrow to his many friends here.

Mr. Jordan was a native of Maine, and a graduate of Bowdoin College in that State. He was a Rhodes scholar at Queen's College, Oxford, and graduated from the University in 1910. He and Mrs. Jordan came to China in 1913 for Y. M. C. A. work, and after a year in Peking came to Hankow to work in the Chinese Y. M. C. A. of this city. He later moved to Wuchang where he was in Y. M. C. A. work for several years. While there he made a real place for himself in the hearts of the Chinese and foreigners alike, and the students of the city especially found in him a source of inspiration, and a leader worthy to be followed.

In the fall of 1921 to the great regret of their friends and fellow workers here, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were transferred to Sianfu, Shensi. They were the first foreigners to go there for Y. M. C. A. work, and that Association has made splendid progress under Mr. Jordan's able leadership. He was interested in and labored for the economic development of that great country and the real good of its people. He was closely in touch with Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, former governor of Shensi, and up to the time of Gen. Feng's removal to Peking he and Mr. Jordan worked together for the development of the province.

Mr. Jordan was the highest type of Christian missionary. He brought to his work great native ability and splendid equipment in education and training. All who knew him admired and respected him for his unselfishness, his faithfulness to duty, and his high standard of Christian living. He gave unsparingly of his time and his energies, and has finally laid down his life for this land which he came to serve.

The genuine sympathy of her friends in this community goes out to Mrs. Jordan in her bereavement.

Shanghai Made Picture Now Being Shown Here

A moving picture made in Shanghai, with a cast composed entirely of Chinese actors and so artistically executed as to compare favorably with current films from American and Europe is something of a sensation per se. Any one of these features would in itself justify the popularity with Shanghai movie fans of the production.

Such a picture is not a dream, but fact—fact in the form of "Evidence"—released last week and now showing in Shanghai theaters. The picture is the first of the productions of the Ramos Film Corporation of Shanghai, a company already established here as owner of many theaters and which now promises to give Shanghai a real place on the moving picture production map.

"Evidence" is a picture which skeptics should witness. Skeptics about the dramatic talent of Young China should see it before further voicing their opinions. Skeptics who doubt the "modernisation" possibilities here or the potentialites of Shanghai as a movie center of the future will likewise get something of an informative shock by letting the picture talk for an hour. "Evidence" is likely to persuade any critic out of a negative frame of mind. It is a highly successful and highly commendable production.

EDWIN ZUNN, DIRECTOR

The feature of the picture is beyond question its skillful direction. Mr. Ramos displayed rare good taste in the opening of his studio here by bringing from Hollywood, Mr. Edwin Zunn as director. Mr. Zunn is a Harvard man, he performed the Oriental role in the original production of "The Bat" in New York City, played in "Suspicion" and other stage plays and finally entered the movies in Hollywood where his success as an interpreter of Oriental parts made a distinct impression. He has a fine creative sensitiveness and an understanding of both Oriental and Occidental art which fits him particularly well for work under the conditions which he faces here. To deal in European dramatic materials with actors and an audience from the Orient is not a simple business, but Mr. Zunn has succeeded and succeeded admirably.

When one considers the difficulties under which the director worked in producing "Evidence" his achievement is really amazing. He wrote his own scenario, he built his own sets, he trained the actors himself, he worked with limited finances (as compared to Hollywood or New York) he relied upon the sun for his lighting, he practically built the picture in all its detail. The result is a compliment to his industry and patience as well as to his artistic taste.

Mr. Zunn himself takes a part in the production, curiously picking that of the villian of the piece. His finished work indicates that he has the stage gift and his poise makes it clear that he is by no means new to the screen. He photographs well and has a generally fine stage paresence.

LEADING LADY SCORES

The leading lady, Miss Aida Koo, does very commendable work and obviously has a screen career before her. She was quite at ease in the role of the seductive young butterfly and her expression displayed real professional quality. She has been trained as a dancer which aids her not only in effecting a gracious screen presence but gives her more than the usual latitude of the actress. Her dances, always difficult in pictures, are in this film very pleasingly done.

Another feature of the production is the acting of Mr. Lou In Hyde, who takes the part of the leading man. He is a Princeton graduate and comes from a very wealthy and prominent family in China. He has the quality which American producers make so much of and call "the sex appeal."

Mr. Hyde's acting shows real dramatic talent, both in his general bearing and in his interpretations. His work is studied, smooth, finished and decidedly effective and will carry him into further successes on the screen without doubt.

The other parts were carried in surprisingly good form, particularly those of the father in the piece, the mother and of the sweetheart. The first, Mr. S. Y. Zar, has had years of experience on the native stage. The shift to the new medium seems in no way to have shaken his command and under the direction of Mr. Zunn he makes a decidedly artistic impression.

A MELODRAMATIC PLOT

The plot of the play is exceptionally good—a melodramatic tale involving millionaires, labor agitators, gambling masters and a complex love theme. It is punctuted with generous affrays and a spectacular fire. The latter done with a red negative, is very effectively filmed. It is one of the few mystery plays in which the guilty person is not revealed long before the climax. The story also has the merit of playing on a number of fundamental Chinese sentiments and traditions.

The chief criticism of the production is that the management has buried it in theaters not generally frequented by foreigners. Foreigners will want to see "Evidence" and the management should have discernment enough to know that fact. Inasmuch as the syndicate owns the "Olympic," "Apollo" and other easily accessible theaters, it is curious that the picture should be released at the "Empire" and led all the way around the periphery of of the city—out of reach.

LACK OF PUBLICITY

The management is likewise open to criticism for giving the piece so little publicity. There is no reason to be ashamed of a picture of the artistic qualities of "Evidence." It surpasses many of the pictures from abroad now shown to us at two dollars a seat. That the picture was produced in Shanghai and by Chinese is a fact in its favor and the fact should be made widely and properly known to movie fans, who, after all, are better judges of the merit or demerit of a play than the man who keeps the ledger.

Philippines Seek American Teachers

(Exclusive China Press)

Manila, Feb. 12.—A representative of the Bureau of Education will leave Manila in the near future for Washington seeking American schoolteachers for the Islands, it was announced today. Americans employed here in educational work are mostly teaching English in the high schools. Sixty additional American teachers are needed now especially to train Filipino teachers.

All applications for teaching positions in the Islands pass through the Bureau of Insular Affairs in Washington. The usual entrance salary is considered low but teachers who have been some time in the service receive $3,500 gold a year. Male teachers are especially desired and only especially competent and trained women are to be considered. The Insular government also pays all travelling expenses to and from the Islands.
